Re: Styleline Studios International Limited v. Litvack – Case No . 2:24-cv-01192-OEM-JMW

Dear Judge Merchant:

This firm represents Plaintiff in the above-referenced matter. Earlier today, we commenced the action and then moved, by order to show cause (the “OTSC”), for a temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction. I write in response to Your Honor’s Order of today directing Plaintiff to certify its efforts to give Defendant notice of Plaintiff’s OTSC.

Pursuant to the Order, it appears that the Court is under the belief that Plaintiff seeks to obtain a TRO without notice to Defendant. That is not the case. As set forth in my Emergency Declaration (ECF Document 5-2), by email sent on February 14, 2024, I advised Plaintiff and his attorney that Plaintiff will be presenting the OTSC this afternoon. (A true and correct copy of the email is attached hereto as Exhibit A.) As reflected in the “Attachments” line of the email, I also attached a copy of the proposed OTSC. In addition, I called Plaintiff’s attorney from Judge Wick’s courtroom today, but only received his voicemail.

Finally, as directed by Your Honor, I sent a copy of Your Honor’s Order to Plaintiff and his counsel, along with the Complaint, another copy of the OTSC, and the attachments to the OTSC.

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Alexander D. Widell
